House System: Virtues in Action

Four Houses. Four Virtues. One Purpose. One Community.

Wellington Collegiate Academy's House System builds character through four core virtues, each represented by a branch of the U.S. military. Students are placed in a house that aligns with their strengths and mission to make a difference.

Wisdom guides our decisions.

- Think carefully before making a decision.
- Gather information before acting.
- Knowledge helps us make better choices.
- Sometimes the wisest choice is knowing when to ask for help.

Justice guides our actions.

- Treat people fairly.
- Follow rules that protect everyone.
- Take responsibility for your actions.
- Stand up for what is right.

Temperance guides our character.

- Stay calm when frustrated.
- Think before reacting.
- Practice discipline.
- Keep going when something is difficult.
- Balance work, play, responsibility, and rest.

Courage guides our hearts.

- Be brave enough to do what is right.
- Speak up when someone is treated unfairly.
- Try something new.
- Ask for help.
- Stand up for a friend.
- Keep going when something is challenging.

Mental Health & Wellness

We understand military-connected students may face unique challenges such as relocation, separation from a parent, or adjustment to a new school. Our school provides access to counselors and trusted staff, including professionals with advanced degrees in clinical psychology and many years of experience in the field, plus community resources to support mental and emotional well-being.
